

LAAX Vintage Days from 5 to 6 October 2024: Conscious Fashion Exhibition with fashion designer Yannik Zamboni

Laax, 9 September 2024 – From 5 to 6 October 2024, the Riders Hotel in LAAX will be transformed into a vibrant platform for fair fashion. The LAAX Vintage Days are all about upcycling, recycling and fair fashion and offer a unique opportunity to experience innovative and environmentally friendly products up close. Swiss fashion designer Yannik Zamboni with his label 'maison blanche' will be among the exhibitors.

Over the course of an entire weekend, selected exhibitors will present their creations at the Riders Hotel in LAAX and provide visitors with exciting insights into the world of conscious fashion. Interactive showrooms make it possible to experience the craftsmanship of the designers live and to purchase the unique pieces directly on site. This platform not only offers space for new, creative brands, but also epitomises LAAX's Greenstyle philosophy. Greenstyle is LAAX's answer to the global challenges of climate change and the promotion of biodiversity.

A varied programme for conscious fashion enthusiasts

In addition to the interactive showrooms, which are open on both days of the event, numerous programme items invite you to delve deeper into the topics of upcycling, recycling and fair fashion. The programme will be rounded off by exciting panel discussions led by visionaries and pioneers from the conscious fashion industry. This will give the audience a unique opportunity to get in touch with the creative minds of today and tomorrow and exchange ideas about the future.

An absolute highlight of the weekend will be the presentation of the latest collection by Yannik Zamboni, founder of the fashion label 'maison blanche'. With his visionary and circular approach to fashion, the Swiss designer has gained international recognition and is setting new standards in the industry.
